PATIENCE AT AN END, DECLARES FRENCH CHIEF

Ready To Take Whatever
Measures Are Necessary To Get Results From Germany

BULLETIN
BRUSSELS—Belgium and France will present to the German government in Berlin at 6 o'clock Wednesday night an ultimatum demanding for the last time that Germany fulfill the reparations program and execute the treaty of Versailles, it was announced here Wednesday afternoon.

Duesseldorf—The reaction of the Germans, particularly in Berlin official circles, to General Degoutte's warning that the French and Belgians had come to the end of their patience and that the occupying forces were ready to "take whatever time and measures" were necessary to enforce their policy, was awaited here Wednesday as the Allies strength ened their position. Midnight will see the expiration of the two week moratorium recently granted Germany for the payment of her half billion gold mark reparation installment.

Whether the French will make default the occasion for putting into effect the expected Ruhr customs barrier and the cessation of coal shipments eastward, had not been announced Wednesday morning.

DRASTIC MEASURES NEXT?
London—Apparently basing their statements upon General Degoutte's warning to Germany, some of the English correspondents at Duesseldorf assert that the French almost immediately will send Berlin a notification equivalent in spirit if not in form to an ultimatum, demanding reversal of the Wilhelmstrasse policy regarding the Ruhr.

Germany is to be told the Post's Duesseldorf correspondent says, that France will not tolerate passive hostility supported and financed by the German government and that if a satisfactory reply is not given drastic measures will be taken exceeding any already in operation.

Dispatches to the telegraph say that this notification will probably be forwarded to Germany Wednesday evening.

Berlin—Hugo Stunnes has repudiated the contract for construction work in the devastated area of France which he concluded several months ago with Marquis Lubersatz, says the Deutsche Beilage Zeitung.

Hundreds of carloads of building material have been sent into northern France under provisions of the agreement.

EXILE MANY GERMANS
Amsterdam—Dispatches to the Exchange Telegraph company from Duesseldorf give details regarding the expulsions of German officials from the occupied zone which it is remarked are daily becoming more numerous.

At Essen the president of the railway board and the police president were arrested and transported under a strong escort to an unknown place.

In many cases the deported men, it is declared, were given no opportunity to inform their relatives of their departure. The families of these men have four days in which to leave the occupied zone. The Socialist Miners' league, the strongest body among the workers, is urging its members to stand firm against the French officers.

Mexico City—Six persons were killed and 22 injured in a head-on collision in the outskirts of Mexico City.

ABOLISH MILITARY TRAINING AT 'U.' IS DEMAND OF WOMEN

Plea To Cut State's Program
Made By Progressives
At Madison

Madison—The abolition of the "Prussian system of military training" at the University of Wisconsin and of the restriction of the state's military program was asked of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive association by Miss Ada James, Richland Center, president, who opened the association's annual convention here Tuesday night.

Opposition to the primary election law was voiced by Miss James who declared that it was an "expensive and almost useless piece of election machinery."

FLAYS LIQUOR INTERESTS
She charged that the liquor interests delayed the enfranchisement of women for many years and added that the women received their strongest support from the progressives including the socialists.

Speaking on opposition to militarism Miss James declared it useless to talk of economy when "Wisconsin pays in federal taxes between eighty and ninety million dollars and 85 out of every hundred dollars goes for war, past, present or future. This leaves but 12 to be used for all constructive work of the nation such as educational, health, agricultural or highway."

At Wednesday's session, Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, spoke on the states marketing problem.

HEAR TAX TALK
Judge Charles D. Ross, member of the state tax commission, discussed the state's revenue problems. He advocated repeal of the personal property tax offset to state income tax, with larger income taxes and repeal of the secrecy clause.

The convention is planning to go on record as favorable to the initiative and referendum, it also plans to ask a reduction in expenditures for the state militia and for a law which will make military training optional instead of compulsory at the state university.

CONGRESSMEN SIGN 'ROUND ROBIN' IN EFFORT TO AID VETS

House Members Plan Speedy
Action On Many Bills—
Bonus Is Neglected

By Associated Press
Washington—A "round robin" was started Tuesday night by Republican members of the house favorable to soldier legislation in an effort to speed action at this session of congress on certain measures affecting the welfare of former service men. Friends of the legislation organized a conference behind closed doors in the house chamber, elected officers and proceeded to business Resolutions were adopted insisting on the necessity of the passage of certain measures.

It was said more than 40 signed the resolution and the conference voted to hold the resolutions for 48 hours in order that other friends of soldier legislation might have an opportunity to join in the movement. Representative Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, who has pending in the house several measures affecting the veterans, including a bonus bill, led the fight for action in behalf of the former soldiers but the bonus bill, it was said was not among those covered in the resolutions.

The conference is said to have demanded action on the Bonus bill, designed to extend to permanently disabled volunteer officers of the World War army the same privileges for retirement of disability granted to the officers of the regular army, navy and marines and marine emergency officers. Captain C. Hamilton Cook, commander of the Disabled American Veterans, recently charged this bill was "held in committee by the war department."

The Sweet bill dealing with lapsed insurance also was under consideration.

THROUGH PAYS TAX AT LAST MINUTE

The long line of persons waiting to meet the city treasurer Wednesday morning resembled a bread line, the difference being that the man behind the window was being made the recipient of contributions. It was easily the busiest day of the entire tax collection period, the crowds representing the last minute tax payers who wished to escape the 2 per cent penalty on taxes that have come delinquent after today. Fully 50 persons were waiting in line practically all the time Wednesday morning.

Ruhr And Near East Troubles Holding Up Payments To America

England May Postpone Settlement Of Debt—Needs Cash For Army On Turk Coast—France Blames Germany

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—War clouds on the horizon of Europe may cause the British cabinet to defer action definitely on the plan for a settlement of the debt question.

Developments not only in the Ruhr but in the Near East have cast a shadow of threatening war that the announcement of a delay on the debt negotiations would not cause any surprise. The British government is known to be concerned about the possible outlay of cash that might be needed if the British army and navy and air forces have to be mobilized to protect British interests.

FRENCH TIED UP TOO
The breakup of the Lausanne conference has stirred the French, too, who are alarmed over the possibilities according to official information reaching here Tuesday. The troubles in the Ruhr are commanding French financial and military resources at the moment and the French contribution to any military combination in the Near East is necessarily a matter of grave concern.

There is, of course, another way of looking at the need for a settlement of the debt question. The British cabinet may decide that more advantages might flow from a settlement between America and Great Britain at this time than from an indefinite postponement for which the latter would mean more time for refinancing operations the former would have certain effects on the present situation.

WANT U. S. SUPPORT
The British have felt some time that what was needed in the Near Eastern crisis was a firmer stand by the American government. The Turks have in the meantime seen France and England grow farther and further apart in the Ruhr crisis and have seen America pull out of the controversy, too. Should the word be passed out that America and Great Britain couldn't settle their debt controversy, the French might draw the inference that Anglo-American unity was impossible and the Turks might be further persuaded to play their lone hand.

The only bright spot on the horizon is that the Turks know the only possible source of funds in Europe today is Great Britain and no war can be carried on very long without cash. All these eventualities, however, must be taken into consideration by the British cabinet before an answer is given to America. The difficulty will be of far reaching importance which ever way it goes. Should the settlement be postponed it will be evident that Great Britain fears another catastrophe may befall Europe and cannot afford to take any chances on the payment of interest or principal.

Louis Laus, secretary of the company, was the first witness on the stand and was still being cross-examined at noon by Mark Catlin, counsel for the defense. Attorney F. G. Nash of Manitowish was called to the stand. Cross-examination centered chiefly on the accuracy or inaccuracy of the amount of gravel shipped. The case is likely to progress several days.

Britain Accepts U. S. Debt Plan

London—Great Britain has decided to accept the American offer in regard to the funding of the British war debt to the United States.

Washington—The British decision to accept the American debt funding suggestions was said Wednesday by Secretary Mellon to open the way for immediate drafting of recommendations to the president for changes in the funding law to legalize the terms suggested in the American proposition.

While the secretary explained that no public move would be made by the American commission pending receipt of official notification of the decision which must come through the British embassy he explained that the American commission was in a position to begin at once an outline of details which the president could transmit to congress.

The nature of the recommendations which the commission may make was not disclosed but indications were that a broadening of the commissions authority would be requested so that it could carry the negotiations to an early conclusion with a hope of final settlement before congress ends its session on March 4.

LEGISLATURE GETS SIX MORE MEASURES

Exemption Of Legion Property Is Asked In State Senate

By Associated Press
Madison—Property owned by the American legion posts in Wisconsin would be exempted from personal property taxation under provision of a bill introduced into the state senate Wednesday. At present the regular property tax rates are applied to American legion holdings.

Senator Max Heck, Racine, brought in a bill to limit the length of freight trains to one-half mile. This bill, backed by the railroad brotherhoods would require additional train crews.

ASKS LOWER COURT FEES
Lower witness fees in courts of record and justice courts are asked by a bill brought in by Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay. He proposes to cut the fee in courts of record from $2 to $1.50 a day and in justice courts from $2 to $1. Travelling expenses allowed witnesses would be reduced from 8 cents a mile to 4 cents.

Senator Barber introduced a formal bill providing protection for silver foxes. It would be illegal to kill a silver fox within ten miles of a fox farm under provisions of his measure.

ASKS HEAT LAW
Regulation of heating in buildings would be placed under the city council of cities, providing a bill introduced by Senator Burke became a law.

Assemblyman J. C. household introduced a bill through provisions of a bill introduced into the lower house by him. The present statute makes no exemption on this personal property, which Mr. Hanson believes should be free from taxation unless valued at more than $1,000.

MARINETTE MAN IS GIVEN 5 YEARS JAIL

By Associated Press
Marinette—Joseph Lavine, arrested last Thursday at Messina, N. Y., and brought to Marinette to face a charge of robbing freight cars belonging to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, was found guilty Tuesday afternoon and sentenced to five years in the state's prison at Waupun by Judge W. B. Quinlan.

The arrest and conviction of Lavine and the arrest Tuesday of Stanley Egley, proprietor of a saloon at Marinette, is believed by special railroad agents, who have been investigating the alleged robberies, that it has solved the mystery surrounding the large number of box car robberies in the Marinette railway yards.

Egley was bound over to circuit court with bonds fixed at $5,000.

NEW WAR SEEN IF POWERS FAIL TO SIGN PACT

Lausanne Conference Reaches Climax—Ismet Pasha Wants Two More Weeks

Lausanne—Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation to the Near East conference, asked the conference Wednesday for a delay of two weeks before the signature of peace and a delay of eight days before a meeting of the conference commission. The interval would be employed, he explained in striving by every means to reach an agreement.

The Turks desired the delay of eight days so that they need not give a definite reply as to acceptance of the treaty until that time expired. The session was suspended to allow the Allies to reach an agreement on the reply to be made to Ismet.

On resumption of the conference session Lord Curzon announced it would be impossible completely to satisfy the Turkish requirements as to time, but personally he was ready to remain at Lausanne until Sunday evening.

PRESENT UNITED FRONT

Lausanne—A long consultation among the Allied delegates in an endeavor to maintain a united front against the Turks preceded the opening of the Near East conference Wednesday. It was said the British would probably be disposed to grant the Turks some days for reflection. All the Allied delegations including the Americans, agreed that the negotiations could not be long protracted.

Lord Curzon in beginning his address in the session Wednesday, said the primary object of the treaty was to bring to an end the terrible war which had desolated eastern Europe and large areas of Asia for more than eight years, and thus enable all the various armies, whether Allied, Turkish or Greek, to go back to their homes. The treaty also was designed to enable the Turkish state, which was vanquished in the war with the Allies but victorious over Greece to resume its place as a consolidate state and reenter the comity of nations.

Lord Curzon said every one regretted that there had not been an agreement as to every clause in the treaty but time was pressing and Europe and indeed the whole world was waiting not for further debates, but for results.

The British foreign secretary declared that it was not possible for the Turkish delegation or the Ankara government to claim that they were being confronted with a surprise or a menace. The allies had endeavored to frame the treaty not by methods of dictation, but by conciliation and compromise.

However, the Allies had reached the unanimous conclusion that good results could not be expected from further meetings of the conference commissions and subcommittees, accordingly they had drawn up in the form of a definite treaty the essential conditions for peace.

"We are convinced that a general honorable peace can be concluded," he said. "This is the treaty we submit today."

BUILDING SHAKES AS CROWD LAUGHS AT 'CAPPY RICKS'

Community Lecture And Artist Series Number Pleases Big Audience

Solemn Lawrence Memorial chapel, scene of many a ceremonious and somber gathering, rocked with the laughter of the big audience which filled most of the auditorium seats to see a company of six talented people present that rollicking comedy, "Cappy Ricks" Tuesday night. It was a number of the Community Lecture and Artists series and ranks among the most enjoyable programs offered this year.

If there is anything funnier on the stage than Cappy Ricks few know anything about it. Peter B. Kyne's comedy provided more laughs in two hours Tuesday night than most people would get by attending the usual comedies every night in the week for six months. The laughs came so close together that it was almost one laugh from start to finish.

The company was under a handicap because it was unable to hang any of its scenery but it is doubtful if the enjoyment of the audience would have been greater if the scenery had been hung. The fun was in the lines and in the situations.

Cappy Ricks, played by Douglas Hope, was a scream. He fit the part like a glove and his supporting cast was way above the average. It was a fine entertainment, just as good as anyone could wish.

ATTENTION, GEORGE DAME

Monday afternoon I was coming home from school when a little boy handed me a printed bill announcing the shoe sale at the Novelle Foot shop. I remembered that we had one like that early in their month and asked the little peddler where he got the bills. He explained that he and his pals had found them under some wood in the Schabo yard and since it was fun to peddle papers they were bringing them around. What a difference in boys; here was one who liked the fun of peddling while the other who had been paid for passing around the bills had hidden them under the wood pile and taken the money for nothing.

W. J. Jamison of Greenville is one of five farmers who will receive state recognition as agricultural leaders at the annual hall, Madison, Thursday. Jamison is one of the program of farmers and home makers week which opened Monday. Outagamie county is one of 25 to have been honored this way since the idea was started. The others are Jefferson, Fond du Lac, Wood, Sauk, Trempealeau, LaCrosse, Green, Kewaunee, Koshong, Walworth, Racine, Dane, Iowa, Sheboygan, Buffalo, St. Croix, Chippewa, Winnebago, Oconto, Washington and Lincoln.

His annual official recognition of local farmers is a unique but little known custom of the Wisconsin legislature. Wisconsin is the first university to present a successful farmers each year a engraved testimonials in recognition of their service to practical agriculture. When the five men are honored in ceremonies on Feb. 1 the list for the 16 years will reach 112. Of this number 12 have been honored by other states, Iowa, Illinois, New York, Connecticut, Minnesota, Michigan and the District of Columbia.

Improves Herd
Presenting Mr. Jamison for recognition H. L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture, said: "William James Jamison, husband of Mrs. Jamison, has been a leader in this state much of his life. Twenty years ago he began the improvement of his herd and has continued to develop its production until his name is now known not only in the Guernsey breeders of Fox Valley, but to the far corners of the nation."

Not once, but repeatedly, has he won that keenness in judgment in selecting world record animals which comes alone to him who is a student of his vocation. While living has been Mr. Jamison's leading interest and activity. He had the most excellent work in the growing and disseminating of pedigreed animals far and wide.

Mr. Jamison's interest in higher education is attested by the fact that seven sons and daughters have been given a college education. As community worker he has been a long spirit in the maintenance of farmers grange and the Fox River Valley Guernsey association."

LIEVES HUBER BILL WILL PASS EVENTUALLY

Assemblyman Charles Schrimpf of Appleton returned Tuesday to Madison to attend the sessions of the legislature. The proposed tax measures the Huber unemployment bill are chief matters of interest there, he said.

Mr. Schrimpf believes that, although the latter bill will meet considerable opposition in both houses, it will be passed in the end. And he is confident that the "round robin" circulated by Senator LaFollette during the session and which Senator Huber presumes to have destroyed in a bonfire never be burned. LaFollette feels he has been vindicated by the action at the primaries and the general election and prefers to have the document preserved to the disgrace of the senator, Mr. Schrimpf believes.

ASSESSORS FAVOR CHANGED TAX LAW

Prefer Only Small Penalty
Where State Returns Are Not Filed On Time

Anton Oppgaard, acting assessor of incomes, has returned from the meeting in Madison of assessors of income, field accountants and tax commissioners of the state. He took a prominent part in the program. Proposed changes in the state taxation laws and methods of field work were discussed at the meeting. One of the proposed changes in the income tax law favored by the delegates was the fixing of a small penalty for failure to file returns in time. At present tardy persons are punished with a double rating, which the assessors considered too stringent.

The conference was unanimously opposed to raising the tax exemption to double what it is now, since the state would thereby not only lose the taxes of the smaller taxpayers, but also a considerable portion from the larger taxpayer. If the exemption is to be raised, the rates also must be raised in proportion it was held.

Only one assessor was in favor of retaining the present property offset to the income tax, the majority feeling that too much time and money is being lost through investigation of seemingly delinquent taxes only to discover that a large income tax is lost by personal property offset.

DECORATES WINDOW ON BIRTHDAY OF HUSBAND

W. H. Hackleman had a pleasant surprise when he reached his jewelry store Tuesday morning. It was a brand new window display with new cloth and curtains. A bouquet of flowers was in the center. It did not occur to him for several minutes that it was his birthday anniversary. This explained the absence from home the previous evening of Mrs. Hackleman, who said she was going to call on a neighbor.

F. RYAN DUFFY TO ASSIST LEGION AT BIG INITIATION

Impressive Ceremony Planned
Monday To Receive More
Than 50 Members

F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, will be in Appleton Monday evening to participate in the initiation of more than 50 new members into Oney Johnston post of the legion at its monthly meeting in Elk hall.

Mr. Duffy's intention to come here was announced at the dinner of the executive committee in the French room of Conway hotel Monday evening. The commander says this is the first time so large a group of members has been received at one time by any Wisconsin post. He desires to be present for the ceremony and to assist with it. He also will give a talk.

Officers decided to follow the new national legion ritual in receiving members, which means a most impressive ceremony with half a dozen officers assisting. The ritual also will be used in conduct of meetings.

Discussion of the Independence day celebration was the chief business of the executive session. Suggestions were offered for a program. The finance committee was instructed to consider all these and to make its recommendations at the next meeting. It is possible an organization will be drafted then if it appears feasible to stage the celebration.

The program for next Monday was considered. All new members will receive special notice concerning the initiation.

GO hear him and you, too, will acclaim him, as the critics have, "A vocalist so far ahead of other baritones as to seem representative of an altogether different art from theirs."

So enthralling is this renowned artist's singing that, having heard him, you will regret the concert's end. But it need not end for you. You can hear him as often as you wish through Columbia Records because Graveure has made many beautiful recordings of his splendid voice. Ask any Columbia Dealer to play Graveure's records for you. We who live in Appleton know that we have many things to be proud of. We can point with pardonable pride to our great industries, to our waterpower, our beautiful, well kept streets, the culture of our people and to our public and semi-public buildings. In none of our accomplishments have we set a higher standard than in our buildings. Few cities in the west can boast of a more beautiful or a better equipped Y. M. C. A.; when the new hospital is completed it will rank with the most modern in the United States and Lawrence Memorial chapel puts Appleton almost in a class by itself among cities of its size. Our splendid buildings, elaborate, large, modern, built with a vision of the future, have been our pride and among our greatest assets.

These three structures, which probably are in the first rank among Appleton's buildings, were built almost entirely by private donations. Public spirited men and women, and that included most of the citizens of our city, generously gave of their means that Appleton might have buildings comparable with the best in the country for purposes for which they were needed. Vast sums were required because these buildings were equipped with everything that modern thought believed necessary, and the people who gave the money have never regretted that they increased their donations in order to erect complete buildings. They have been the pride not only of those who contributed the funds for building them but of all the people of Appleton.

The board of education now is debating whether it should build two junior high schools without gymnasiums and auditoriums because the bond issue of $425,000 which the common council has authorized is not sufficient to provide the schools with these facilities. In reality, the board is debating whether Appleton should build incomplete schools, buildings which are below the standard of our other public structures; it is debating whether Appleton should take a step backward. The board of education does not want to build incomplete schools; it would much rather erect modern buildings, equipped with everything that a modern educational plant should contain. But the money at its disposal is not sufficient to provide a plant of that kind and the board fears that the common council will not provide additional funds for school purposes. Most of the board members feel it would be a great wrong to erect the schools without gymnasiums.

The Post-Crescent agrees with the majority of the board members that it would be a grievous mistake to erect junior high schools that are not equipped with facilities demanded by modern educational practices. We believe Appleton will be taking a step backward that it will regret forever if it build junior high schools without gymnasiums. Educators and physicians are almost unanimous in declaring that physical education-building up of the bodies of students so their minds can function more alertly—is as necessary in a school as any of the academic or special courses in the curriculum. In some states physical education in junior and senior high schools is required by law and it will not be many years before Wisconsin also will demand that body development be included in its scheme of education.

When Appleton built its senior high school nearly a decade ago it included a gymnasium. If there was a need for gymnastic training then the need must surely exist now. Educators are more emphatic than ever that physical education is necessary to proper education of youth.

Appleton cannot afford to be pennywise and pound foolish in school matters. When the Y. M. C. A., the hospital and the chapel were built the cost was more or less a secondary consideration; efficiency was the predominate note. Surely Appleton as a city cannot afford to do less for itself than its people have done for it as private citizens.

Efficiency should be the foremost consideration in building junior high schools. Educators and teachers know that physical training and properly supervised exercises are necessary for maximum efficiency in the study room and the classroom and the place to get this training and these exercises is in properly equipped gymnasiums. They are necessary for efficiency. The people of Appleton should not lose sight of that fact; they should not permit their vision to be clouded by the extra money that will be required. If we build junior high schools without gymnasiums we will be taking a backward step which we will soon regret.

RELIGION ON THE FRONT PAGE

Discussing a New York minister's sensational defiance of the creed and authority of his own church, a writer in the World says:

"It has taken the threat of a heresy trial to put the Episcopal church on the first page, and why shouldn't religion be a thing so vital and so much a part of the daily life of us all that it should have its place among the headlines?"

Of course the only answer is, "It should." If religion is what it purports to be, it is the biggest thing in life. It is supposed to be the force which binds together all other human forces, which explains life's mysteries, which shows the goal of existence and how to reach it. In comparison with that, other human activities look pretty small. Yet the other activities do pretty nearly monopolize the news which is supposed to reflect present-day life.

It must be, as the critics insist, that organized religion today is not vital, not in touch with human life and needs. In the days when all our great faiths took form, religion was a vital thing. Men argued and fought about it and died for it, and it entered into everything. Life and action as a whole hung together. People believed, and let their acts reflect their beliefs.

Whether those beliefs were right or wrong according to present views, they accomplished something. They got action. The ages of faith have always been great creative, productive periods. Starting with a stimulation of spirit, they have stirred up literature, science, art and nearly everything else. The world does seem to need such a living faith now. And when it comes, there will be no difficulty about religion getting onto the front pages.

MANSION FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Nobody seems ever to have thought it necessary to provide an official residence for the Vice-President of the United States until Mrs. John B. Henderson precipitated the issue the other day. Apparently there are no strings to her offer of a fine, half-million mansion, except that the gift is to be considered as a memorial to the donor's husband, the late Senator Henderson of Missouri.

What will congress do about it? Very likely, whatever the American public wants done about it, if congress can find out. Without such illumination, the gift may lie on the table for some time, as did the Kondon residence for the American ambassador presented by J. P. Morgan.

It always seems rather humiliating to accept a private gift for a national purpose, when the nation itself is so rich and powerful. Yet there are numerous precedents for acceptance. At any rate, it seems fitting enough for the vice-president to have an official home in Washington. It would add new dignity and desirability to an important office which has fallen into disrepute.

TEACHING THRIFT IN THE SCHOOLS

It is interesting to see how business men of the first class are beginning to realize that there is a real field for their cooperation with the public school. It has been complained often that children learn extravagance among their school fellows, that there is competition in dress, in spending and in entertainment. A properly conducted thrift contest may offset such ill-judged strivings, and thrift propaganda in the schools will back it up. If this sort of activity were commoner among the children in the public schools, not for the purpose of saving any definite sum but for the purpose of developing a habit of thrift, there should be a marked difference in dependency statistics in a generation. Many more young people from the great middle stratum of society would be provided with capital when ready to embark in business. More students entering college would be able to devote their entire energy to study instead of having to spend time and strength piecing out scanty funds. The immediate effect on the children's sense of values would be beneficial and the propaganda carried from the school to the home would make life easier there.

THE DREAD CHANGE BOGEY

"I am 42 years old," writes a Washington correspondent, "five feet seven and one half inches tall and weigh 155 pounds. I have always had the best of health and I can run races with my small children, so I imagine I am now in pretty fair physical condition. I suppose, however, I will have to face the change of life before many years, and I want to be in the best possible condition for that ordeal."

Now, before we say another word I want to have it clearly understood that there isn't no such ordeal, and I reserve the right to refuse to testify on the ground that it would tend to incriminate me, in the event that any reader writes to ask "Well, then, if there is no change of life, what would you call my trouble?" This is the invariable reaction whenever I decline to acknowledge as entities such fanciful states as "rheumatism," "catarrh," "cold," "nervous breakdown," and "indigestion." Mind, I do not doubt that folks with these obsessions really have something the matter; I merely insist that it isn't the legendary thing they imagine it to be. What really does all this is something for the doctor to find out, unless they are content to drift along with such soothing but meaningless diagnosis as those named above.

We all pass through the change of life, most of us without calamity every day and every year, quite as definitely in every sense as does the woman of 48 or thereabouts.

We are all, men and women, subject to various diseases or impairments in middle age, but sex is absolutely not a factor worthy of consideration in the prevention or treatment of any of the health disturbances of this epoch of life.

As a boogeyman it is to hope to expect that "the change" will bring about cure or relief of anything that ails you, it is really absurd to suffer needless anxiety about the "ordeal" to be met at 50.

No sensible woman need take any other or more precautions or care of her health at 40 or 50 than she does or should at 20 or 30 or 40.

DON'T WANT GYMNASIUM

Editor Post-Crescent:—As you have asked for a discussion of the school question, I submit my views. I do believe in good education; also in all necessary schools. I do not believe in gymnasiums, cafeterias or swimming pools; nor do I believe we need two junior high schools. One would have been plenty. Two janitors, two heatings cost more than one. Let the children walk a mile or two after studying all day in school, that is good for limbering them up.

I also believe that all children that are studious and ambitious to learn should be kept in school, but there are a lot of them that high school is a detriment to. Of the class of fifteen that graduated with me sent to the little Red School, six were sent to high school in the city by their parents. Only one was a success. She became a teacher. Two died, three are clerks on medium salaries. Now do not think I do not want education, but so many children are spoiled by trying to force a high school term on them. "When my oldest boys began high school after first term they said, 'Father we are not going to high school any longer because the high school has too many flappers and cigar smokers. We are going to learn a trade, and they did and both are clean morally and well off financially.'"

My reason for not wanting to have two new schools fully equipped are not alone because of higher taxes even if I did pay $215 tax but rather for the other reasons stated, as we do not need them. Let us teach our children a mechanical trade and they can take care of themselves.

As to the bridge that ought to have been started before now. In a conversation with Alderman Laabs some time ago he stated if the stay at home folks would take more interest in the city affairs and at the elections the officials would know more what was wanted and needed, so if the people do not wake up and express their views our city officials are not going to over-exert themselves trying to find out what they want.

HE DOES WANT GYMNASIUM

To the Editor of the Post-Crescent: In as much as you have solicited the opinions of the citizens and taxpayers of Appleton with regard to our problem of erecting two junior high schools, I venture to express mine.

Although the matter of selecting sites for these buildings is, I believe, closed or practically so, I wish to say that I regard the site selected for the east side school a very poor one. It is at the very edge of the very large district from which the children come, making it necessary for the great majority of children to come a long ways. This school should be erected in the present City Park or not far from there. It seems as though the people rated the judgment of the schoolboard in this matter too high. But if this mistake cannot be undone, we must not now make another one, equally great and harmful, by erecting schools without gymnasium and auditorium or the two combined in one. These things are essential for an efficient educational plant in our day, the opinion of our honorable mayor to the contrary notwithstanding. To erect these buildings without proper facilities for recreation and assembly would mean a wasting rather than saving of public funds. We certainly need to save in our municipal household, but this is neither the place nor the method to do it.

Respectfully yours,
G. C. C.

When he had established his business standing, Adams ventured into public affairs. He took up school and church activities in Dubuque. During the war he directed the Red Cross drive in Iowa.

Adams' interest in politics was inherited from his father, who was in Congress in the days of Daniel Webster. He started by conducting William B. Allison's last primary campaign for senator in 1908. And he continued on his climb through state and national politics until May, 1921, he became chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Outside of politics, Adams likes books and languages. His stately home on the Dubuque hillside, overlooking the Mississippi, contains what is said to be one of the finest private libraries in Iowa.

Lowly Spud Is Morsel Fit For King If Fixed One Of These Five Ways

Instead of urging you again to send in your potato recipes, the Contest Editor is going to give you five recipes today instead of two. There is only one drawback to this plan, however, that is unless he gets more recipes from you who are using these, that he will run out of new ideas and have to close the contest. Come on now, good cooks be good sports and send some more ways to fix the lowly but nutritious "spud."

Here is a minced ham recipe which sounds pretty good; why don't you try it and send another in exchange: Slice raw potatoes thin into a baking dish, put in a layer of potatoes, then a layer of boiled ham minced, salt and pepper and a tablespoon of flour, and repeat until dish is full. Cover with milk and bake one hour.

THIS ONE DELICIOUS
The sender of this one says it is delicious: Take enough potatoes for your family, pare, cut in cubes and boil. Add salt, three or four bay leaves and a little onion if you like. Boil until well cooked, drain and mash. In the meantime, cut stale bread in cubes and fry these until brown in butter or meat drippings. While mashing the potatoes, add enough of the potato water, a little at a time, until the potatoes are quite mushy. Add the fried bread. You will need no gravy for this dish.

And now look at this splendid idea: When mashed potato is left over from a meal, pat it all down smooth while still warm. When wanted for use, slice thin, roll each slice in flour and fry a crisp brown in fat and butter mixed.

A REAL MEAL
This sounds like a good meal in itself: Take 3 cupfuls of cold boiled potatoes chopped, 1 small can of salmon, 1 small bunch of celery, chopped and 1

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

PLAN TO SPEND $300,000 FOR PHONE LINES

Appleton Included In Wisconsin Telephone Company's $300,000 Program

Wisconsin Telephone company plans to expend about $300,000 for new construction and equipment in the state in the next five years, $300,000 of which will be spent in Appleton, according to announcement by W. R. McGovern, president.

The adoption of our five year construction program," said Mr. McGovern, "means that we will not have a large program one year, with its attendant employment of large groups of workmen, and the next year have a small program, necessarily forcing us to lay off many men. Instead, this plan will provide steady and continuous work for construction crews, eliminate unemployment, and will help to stabilize general industrial conditions."

Among the nearby cities to benefit by the proposed expenditure are Neenah-Menasha, $50,000; New London, $45,000; Oshkosh, $130,000; Fond du Lac, $200,000; Green Bay, $350,000; Shawano, $40,000; Stevens Point, $300,000; Watertown, $90,000.

Among the larger items included in this improvement work are the construction and installation of 750,000 miles of telephone wire, 17,000 poles and 300 miles of conduit in which the underground cables are laid.

During 1922 the company spent about $4,000,000 for new construction in Wisconsin and gained more than 8,000 new telephone stations. The company now operates a 224,000 telephones in the state, and the number of calls handled each day exceeds 1,000,000.

ON THE SCREEN

NEW FOX SPECIAL IS STIRRING PHOTOPLAY

William Fox has disproved the theory that "there's nothing new under the sun."

In "My Friend the Devil," the Fox special production which opened a 3 days' engagement at the Elite Theatre yesterday, he brings forth upon the screen a new type of entertainment that won unanimous approval at its initial presentation here.

It contains every element necessary for real entertainment—a novel plot, a powerful theme, unexcelled dramatic sequence, superlative portrayal, romance, thrills and a motive that will win the praise of every woman and child.

The photoplay is an adaptation from Georges Ohnet's famous novel, "Dr. Rameau," and to Harry Millarde was given the credit for another pictorial masterpiece. Mr. Millarde directed "Over the Hill," which is one of the triumphs of motion picture history.

The entire picture of "My Friend the Devil," has been correctly mounted and the types and costumes seem to step right from the pages of Ohnet's novel. Throughout the picture dramatic sequences follow one another in rapid-fire order, building up to a stirring climax.

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

Every scene in D. W. Griffith's new picture sensation, "Orphans of the Storm," an adaptation of "The Two Orphans," Kate Claxton's famous stage classic, was photographed from three to ten times, and every scene personally was directed by Mr. Griffith. "Orphans of the Storm" is a United Artists Corporation release and starts today for four days showing at Fischer's Appleton theatre.

MILITARY ORDER TO MEET FEB. 22

Annual Gathering Of Wisconsin War Officers To Be Held In Milwaukee

Local members of the Wisconsin commandery of the Military Order of Foreign Wars have been notified of the annual banquet in Milwaukee on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22. Detailed plans have not been announced.

Col. John G. Salsman is state commander, succeeding Postmaster William H. Zuehlke of Appleton. At the last annual banquet, Mr. Zuehlke, as past commander, was presented with a gold badge by the order.

Announcement has also been made of the national meeting of the Military Order of Foreign Wars, in Milwaukee sometime in May. This will be the first time the national meeting ever has been held in that city or perhaps the west. Previous meetings usually have been held in the extreme eastern cities, such as Boston, New York, Philadelphia.

The organization is composed of officers of the United States Army who served in foreign wars. Direct male descendants of those officers are also accepted. The order therefore embraces officers or sons of the Revolutionary, Mexican, Spanish-American and the World wars. There are about a dozen members in Appleton.

PRIEST CAR LINE IS WORTH $18,000

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is the Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starves food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive acids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results. adv.

During his six years of service in the house, he was a member of the judiciary committee.

Congressman Florian Lampert of Oshkosh would like to be governor of the Badger state, it is reported. He is now chairman of the patents committee of the house.

New Motor Has Power for Any Hill or Pull

No Knock, "Ping" or Vibration at Any Speed

PIKES PEAK MOTOR

A PHENOMENAL new motor that was built to a mountain's specifications in order to assure rugged strength, limitless power and a commanding margin of safety, is the outstanding feature of the 1923 Chandler car.

This motor earned its name, for it had to prove its capacity when pitted against the strains of Pikes Peak, the world's loftiest automobile highway, whose summit is 14,000 feet above the sea.

New Low Prices Complete the Triumph!

The Pikes Peak tests proved that perfect combustion under the widest range of atmospheric conditions had finally been achieved;

—that the steepest grades could be ascended in a swift, smooth, silent advance;

—that instant throttle response had been obtained even with low grade fuels;

—that the so called "ping" or spark knock of pre-ignition had been utterly eliminated regardless of carbon;

—that vibration, pounding, bucking, skipping on any grade had been overcome.

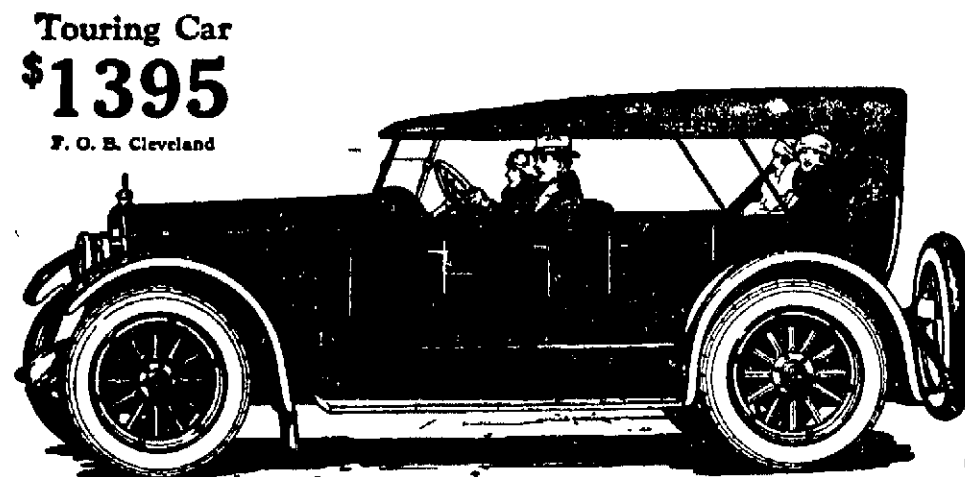

This new Chandler was built, without regard to cost, to get the best.

Four open and four closed body styles have been carried to a new perfection.

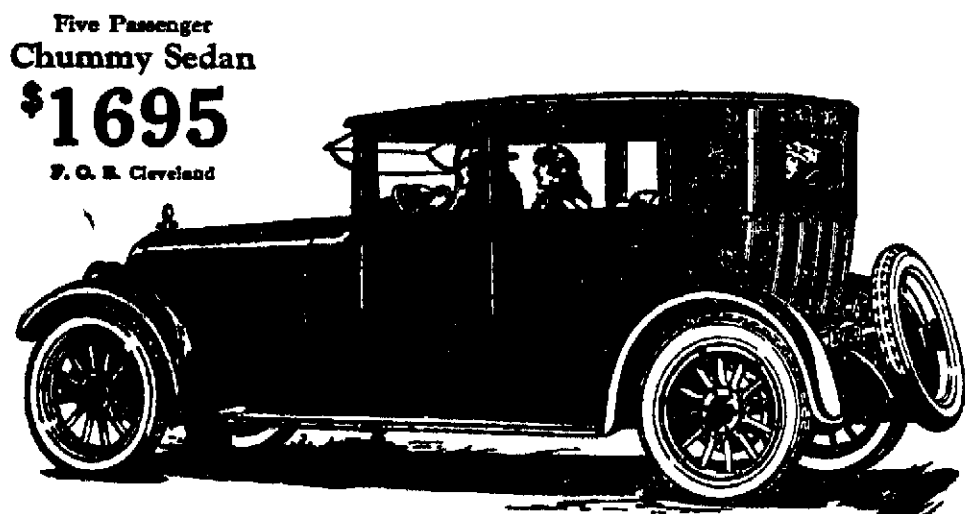

An increase in price could readily have been justified, for the motor is a much more expensive design.

But Chandler production skill has matched Chandler engineering genius, and despite the advance in quality, there are new low prices on all models.

The result is a value without precedent, a value that can be proved by performance.

"Aha! But it is not necessary you remain for that. And meantime de Vrench will have dear eye on Barbados, which is not well defended. You had here chust de man you want. He vill require no insdrukschuns, dis one. He vill know how to make Port Royal safe, bedder nor you or me."

"You mean Blood?"
"Of course. Could any man be bodder? You had seen vhad he can do?"
"You think so, too, eh? Fend!" I had thought of it; and, rip me, why not?"

Blood was sent for. He came snice and debonair once more, having exploited the resources of Port Royal to render himself. He was a trifle dazzled by the honor proposed to him, when Lord Willoughby made it known.

"I had counted upon some home, so I had. I am hungry for the green lanes of England," Blood sighed. "There will be apple blossoms in the orchards of Somerset."

"Apple blossoms?" His lordship's voice shot up like a rocket, and crackled on the word. "What the devil... Apple blossoms?" He looked at van der Kuylen.

The Admiral raised his brows and pursed his heavy lips. His eyes twinkled humorously in his great face. "So," he said, "Very boodical!" My lord wheeled fiercely upon Captain Blood. "You've a past score to wipe out, my man!" he admonished him. "You've done something to ward it, I confess; you've shown quantity in doing it. That's why I offer you the governorship of Jamaica in His Majesty's name—because I account you the fittest man for the office that I have seen."

Blood bowed low. "Your lordship is very good. But... Techah! There's no fut to it. If you want your past forgotten, and your future assured, this is your chance. And you are not to treat it lightly on account of apple blossoms or any other damned sentimental nonsense. Your duty lies here at least for as long as the war lasts. When the war's over, you may get back to Somerset and cider or your native Ireland and its potheen; but until then you'll make the best of Jamaica and rum."

Blood stiffened and bowed. "My lord, you are right. I am a fool. But don't be accounting me as an ingrate as well. If I have hesitated, it is because there are considerations with which I will not trouble your lordship."

"Apple blossoms, I suppose?" snorted his lordship. "This time Blood laughed, but there was still a lingering wistfulness in his eyes. "It shall be as you wish—and very gratefully, let me assure your lordship. I shall know how to earn His Majesty's approbation. You may depend upon my loyal service."

"If I didn't, I shouldn't offer you this governorship."
"Now we can about our business go," said van der Kuylen. "We sail tomorrow morning," his lordship announced.

Blood was startled. "And Colonel Bishop?" he asked. "He becomes your affair. You are now the Governor. You will deal with him as you think proper on his return. Hang him from his own yardarm. He deserves it."

"Isn't the task a trifle invidious?" wondered Blood. "Very well. I'll leave a letter for him. I hope he'll like it."

Captain Blood took up his duties at once. With the sanction of Lord Willoughby, he marshalled his buccanniers and surrendered to them one fifth of the captured treasure leaving it to their choice thereafter either to depart or to enroll themselves in the service of King William.

A score of them elected to remain, and amongst these were Jeremy Pitt, Ogle and Dyke. They were—saying old Wolverstone, who had been left behind at Cartagena—the only survivors of that band of rebels—convict who had left Barbados over three years ago in the Cinco Llagas.

On the following morning, whilst van der Kuylen's fleet was making finally ready for sea, Blood sat in the spacious whitewashed room that was the governor's office, when Major Mallard brought him word that Bishop's homing squadron was in sight.

"That is very well," said Blood. "I am glad he comes before Lord Willoughby's departure. The orders, Major, are that you place him under arrest the moment he steps ashore. Then bring him here to me. A moment." He wrote a hurried note. "That to Lord Willoughby aboard Admiral van der Kuylen's flagship."

Major Mallard saluted and departed. Peter Blood sat back in his chair and stared at the ceiling, frowning. Time moved on. Came a tap at the door, and an elderly negro slave presented himself. Would his excellency receive Miss Bishop?

He rose when she entered, and if he was not as pale as she was, it was because his tan dissembled it. For a moment there was silence between them, as they stood looking each at the other. Then she moved forward, and began at last to speak.

"I... I... Major Mallard has just told me..."
"Major Mallard exceeded his duty," said Blood, and because of the effort he made to steady his voice it sounded harsh and unduly loud.

He saw her start, and stop, and instantly made amends. "You alarm yourself without reason, Miss Bishop. Whatever may be between me and your uncle, you may be sure that I shall not follow the example he has set me. Lord Willoughby's recommendations to me is that I shall treat him without mercy. My own intention is to send him back to his plantation in Barbados."

She came slowly forward now. "I... I am glad that you will do that. Glad, above all, for your own sake." She held out her hand to him.

He considered it critically. Then he bowed over it. "I'll not presume to take it in the hand of a thief and a pirate," said he bitterly.

"You are no longer that," she said, and strove to smile. "Yet I owe no thanks to you that I am not," he answered. "I think there's no more to be said, unless it be to add the assurance that Lord Julian Wade has also nothing to apprehend from me. That, no doubt, will be the assurance that your peace of mind requires?"

"For your own sake—yes. But for your own sake only. I would not have you do anything mean or dishonoring."
Her clear hazel eyes considered him a moment wistfully. Then she put out her hand again.

"I am going, Captain Blood. Since you are so generous to my uncle, I shall be returning to Barbados with him. We are not like to meet again—ever. It is impossible that we should part friends? Once I wronged you, I know. And I have said that I am sorry. Won't you... won't you say 'goodbye'?" He took the hand she proffered.

Retaining it, he spoke. "And Lord Julian, then?" he asked, his eyes watching her, bright as sapphires in that copper-colored face. "Lord Julian will no doubt be going home to England. There is nothing more for him to do out here."

"But didn't he ask you to go with him?"
"He did. I forgive you the impertinence."

A wild hope leapt to life within him. "And you? Glory be, ye'll not be telling me ye refused to become my lady, when..."

"Oh! You insufferable!" She tore her hand from him, and backed away from him. "I should not have come..." Goodbye!"

She was speeding to the door. He sprang after her, and caught her. "Arabella!" he cried on a note of pleading. "Must I release ye? Must I let ye go and never set eyes on ye again? Or will ye stay and make this exile endurable until we can go home together? Ooh, ye're crying now! What have I said to make ye cry, my dear?"

"I... I thought you'd never say it," she mocked him through her tears.

They had, of course, a deal to say thereafter, so much, indeed, that they sat down to say it, whilst time sped on, and Governor Blood forgot the duties of his office. And meantime Colonel Bishop's fleet had come to anchor, and the Colonel had landed on the mole, a disgruntled man to be disgruntled further yet. He was accompanied ashore by Lord Julian Wade.

A corporal's guard was drawn up to receive him, and in advance of this stood Major Mallard and two others who were unknown to the Deputy-Governor: one slight and elegant, the other big and brawny.

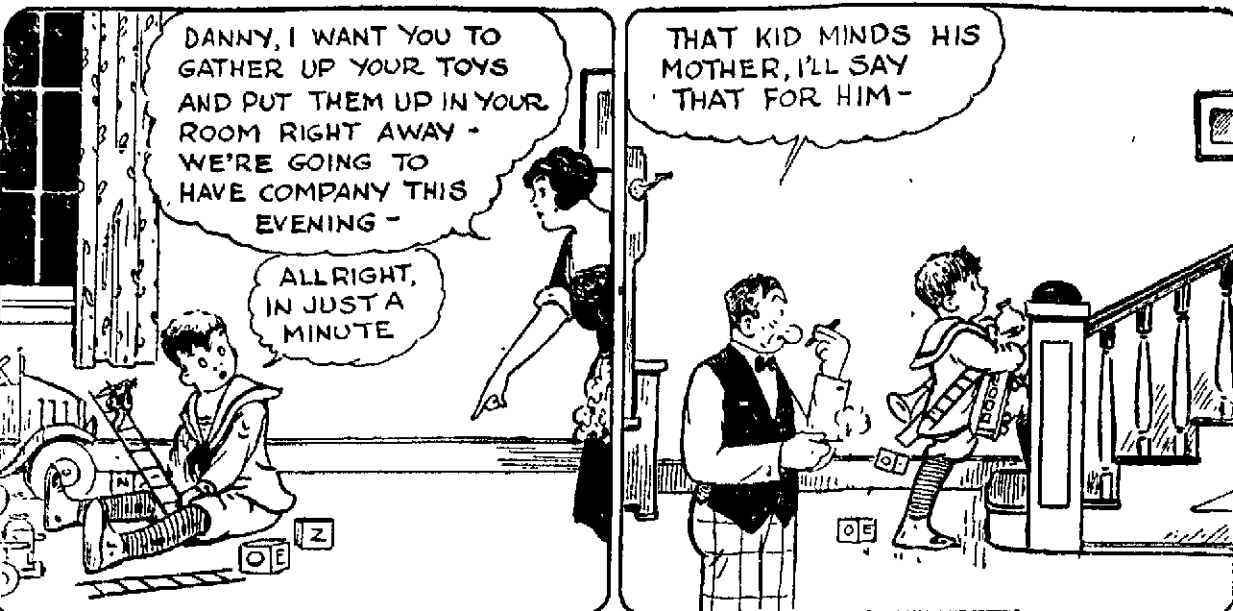

Major Mallard advanced. "Colonel Bishop, I have orders to arrest you. Your sword, sir!"
Bishop stared, empuirpung. "What the devil... Arrest me, d'ye say? Arrest me? By whose orders, pray?"

"By the orders of the Governor of Jamaica," said the elegant little man behind Major Mallard, Bishop swung to him.

"The Governor? Ye're mad!" He looked from one to the other. "I am the Governor," he announced furiously.

'Gimme' Is An Arraignment Of Stingy Hubby

BY JAMES W. DEAN

New York—Rupert Hughes deals with family finances in "Gimme." That is a subject of wide interest. One might say it is universal in its scope. However, Hughes hits his subject a glancing blow and thus fails to ring the bell.

Perhaps you have watched men at carnivals or street fairs with a huge maul in their hands trying to make a weight slide up a wire and ring the bell at the top of a high up rig. The secret of success in that venture lies not in the force with which the blow is struck, but in meeting the lever that propels the weight with a square blow.

The success of driving home a conclusion on the screen is achieved in a similar manner, but many movie makers rely on force rather than on accuracy to gain their end.

Thus Hughes starts out with the subtitle, "Money has wrecked more homes than sin." It sounds pretty, but is illogical. Having started on that false premise he is unable to extricate himself and his theme as he goes along and so he seems to have stopped several times during the film to remark to the camera-man, "Well, this is only a movie, after all." The audience hears his bantering even though he tried to laugh up his sleeve.

Perhaps the above attitude toward "Gimme" is purely a masculine one. The story is a defense of the housewife who must continually ask the husband for money to meet household and personal expenses. In the general household in which I have lived that condition did not exist. That may be the reason Hughes' story seems illogical to me.

At any rate, any married couple seeing "Gimme" will find food for discussion. The picture may result in numerous domestic upheavals.

Hughes might have called the picture "Gimme, Ltd." It moves with the speed of the twentieth century limited. Indeed, its momentum at times blurs the significance of small incidents. It is like whizzing by a pasture and not being able to tell whether the animals in the background are horses or cows.

This tempo is in keeping with the quick romance of the story. Hero and heroine fall in love at first glance. He almost kisses her upon their first meeting although his fiancée accompanies him. He does kiss her on second meeting and every subsequent meeting. In fact they are married on their fourth meeting. The cry of "action!" apparently was continuous during the filming of the picture.

Gaston Glass seems to be perfectly cast as the impulsive impractical husband in "Gimme." Helene Chadwick is admirably placed as the wife. Indeed, Miss Chadwick always seems to be admirably fitted for the roles she plays. The one discordant note in the casting was Henry B. Walthall as a housekeeping husband. He does good work, but Walthall is one of the screen's best pantomimists. His talent should be utilized in more important roles.

Adventures Of The Twins

Plot Against Twins

Comet-Legs had his star to the top of a tree and climbed down to the place by a cave where Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, and Light Fingers, the bad little fairy, were waiting for him.

Then Twelve Toes told him how Nancy and Nick had got the Fairy Queen's automobile back for her after Light Fingers had stolen it.

"And we can't do a thing," stormed Twelve Toes. "It's a magic automobile and I want it, but every time Light Fingers steals it for me something happens."

"If Light Fingers will come with me I think we can manage it nicely," said Comet-Legs. "I saw the Twins only a few minutes ago. They had left the Milky Way and were coasting down toward the earth on a nice, smooth, broad moon-beam."

"Come and hop on my star behind me, Light Fingers. We'll go up to Bluster-Gust Land, and if we are lucky enough to find the Weatherman away, we'll take his barrel marked 'Regular Pourdowns' and dump it all on the earth."

"It will make the roads so skiddy, the Twins will never get back to the Fairy Queen's Palace."

Light Fingers and Comet-Legs climbed the tree where the star was tied, and got on. Then the two of them whizzed away through the sky toward Bluster-Gust Land.

Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, the Weatherman, was out as luck would have it (or bad luck, you might say), and the two bad little fairies had everything their own way.

They got the big rain-barrel, rolled it on a cloud and opened the top.

Down poured the rain and soon every road on earth was as skiddy as a skating pond.

CREPE NIGHTGOWN

BY MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Exquisite orchid crepe de Chine makes the body part of this lovely nightgown. The bertha and the shoulder-yoke portions are pink Georgette daintily pinstripped and arranged to connect two pieces of lace in hand effect. The lace is cream color and with the pin-tucked insertions makes a trimming smart enough to be really distinctive.

Straps of ribbon extend up from the gown portion over the shoulders to keep the weight of wear from the more-or-less fragile yoke. This ribbon should harmonize with the bow at the center front.

Such a gown makes a lovely gift, especially for an early spring birthday.

CRAB MEAT (CREOLE)

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH

Of Columbia University

1 large can or 1 pound fresh crab meat
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 clove or bean garlic, chopped
2 green peppers, thinly sliced
8 tomatoes, peeled and chopped
6 mushrooms, peeled and sliced
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
Slight grating nutmeg.
Few grains cayenne

Fry onion, garlic and peppers in the olive oil five minutes. Add tomatoes, mushrooms and seasonings and cook 20 minutes. Cook crab meat in butter five minutes. Add crab meat to the other mixture and cook 15 minutes. Season to taste. Serve on platter, garnished with puff paste points.

Or make in a chafing dish, using blazer until the last cooking, which should be done by using hot water.

Puff paste points are made by cutting the trimmings from patties or any left over piece of paste into pointed triangles. Bake a delicate brown.

FRIED POLENTA, TOMATO SAUCE

1 cup cornmeal
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
4 cups boiling water
3/4 cup grated cheese

Into the boiling water sift the cornmeal mixed with the salt, stirring constantly to prevent lumps forming. Cook over the fire 10 minutes then over water one hour. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Turn into a mold, and when cold cut into slices. Roll each slice in flour and fry in bacon or ham fat until a golden brown. Serve with tomato sauce, made as follows:

3 cups canned or 5 fresh tomatoes
1 sliced onion
2 tablespoons lard or bacon fat
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Bit of bay leaf
6 pepper corns (unground pepper)

Fry onion in lard or bacon fat, add flour and brown slightly. Add tomatoes and seasonings and simmer half an hour. Strain and rub all the tomato to pulp through the sieve. Season more to taste and serve. If bacon has been fried, garnish with the bacon strips.

COCOANUT CHEESE TARTS

1 cream cheese
1/4 cup softened butter
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons milk
3/4 cup dates
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup fresh keeping coconut milk and sugar for tops.

This recipe makes from 18 to 20 tarts.

Work the cheese with a spoon until soft. Add butter and mix thoroughly. Add sifted flour, salt and milk. Mix well. Chill. Turn out on floured board and roll to 1/4 inch thickness.

DEEP WATERS

Chapter 19 — A Plea by Radio

By Zoe Beckley

Myra and Barrett, still transfixed, stood looking into each other's eyes, a flood of misunderstanding between them. Their hands did not touch, their hearts beat painfully.

"Come," said Barrett at last, gently, leading the way to a sheltered corner of the deck where two steamer chairs stood close together. "Come—and talk."

"I hoped to see you before you sailed."

"I ran away." Myra's honesty, especially in crises, was impulsive. "I was afraid of you, Jack. You had promised not to sail on the 'Cedric' with me. But I was afraid if you saw me again—"

"—that I wouldn't keep my word! Well, you see I did."

Myra shook her head.

"Only partly. How did you find out I'd changed my sailing to this boat at the last minute?"

Barrett winced.

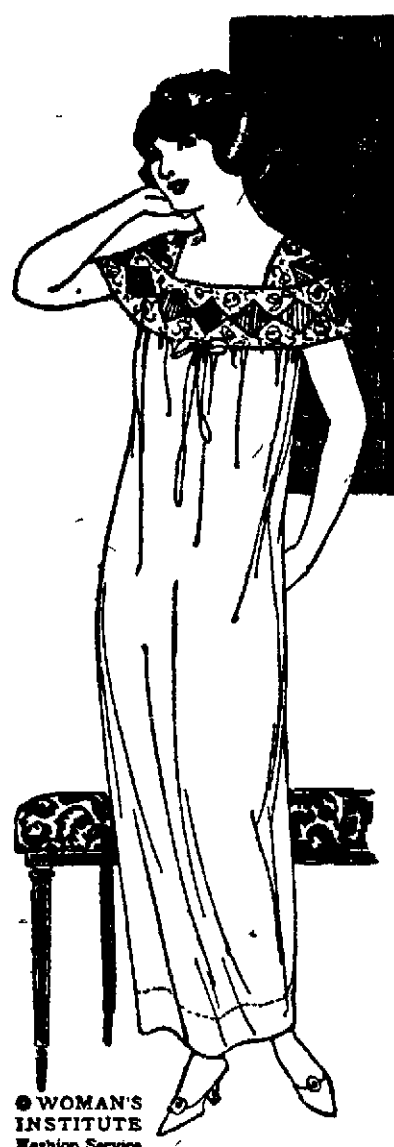

"That's not fair. I didn't find out. I simply had to get away. I avoided the 'Cedric' and caught this—for Holland."

She was still troubled, but now at the situation rather than with doubts of him.

"Forgive me, Jack. I might have known you'd keep a promise. But I was upset—"

She paused, as though preoccupied with a more important problem. "What—just what is going to happen now?"

Barrett suddenly covered the hand

Candy Making Is Only Matter Of Chemistry

BY MARIAN HALE

In your collection of degrees do you include a "B. B.?"

It's very modern. It signifies you've learned all about the candy business.

Thus have you become a "Palate Benefactor."

The professor who confers the degree is Mrs. Elinor G. Hanna.

Several years ago Mrs. Hanna went to work in a candy factory. Dipping chocolates and packing cartons didn't satisfy her ambition.

"So I studied chemistry, and snooping about the factory," she says. "I learned how to cut down the formulae—in the factory we made up 500-pound batches."

"Soon I got so I could make professional-looking candy in my own kitchen."

"Then I started a candy-making school."

"It's just a matter of chemistry—knowledge of what to combine. The ingredients must be measured as accurately as a chemist's compound."

"Then there's the exact moment at which the sugar must be removed from the stove."

"Cream candies are made on fondant. For that you use one cup of sugar and two-thirds of a cup of water, boiling until the thermometer registers 235°."

"With different flavorings you evolve all fancy bonbons and creams. Your imagination's the only limit to the variety."

"To glaze nuts, dip them in a syrup made by boiling one cup of sugar, a half cup of water and an eighth teaspoonful of cream of tartar until the mixture registers 305°."

"All foundations are easy and cheap."

"What makes the finished product desirable is the art with which you work up your materials, appearance and salesmanship."

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Newly wedded Finnish couples have a novel method of raising money to set them up in house-keeping.

At the wedding reception bride and bridegroom sit in state in all their finery, the bride holding a sleeve covered by a rich shawl.

As each guest advances to offer congratulations, he slips a bit of money into the sleeve and the bridegroom shouts the amount to the company.

THE FOUNDATION

Corsets and brassieres for spring are more supple and of more beautiful fabric than ever before, to say nothing of the elaborate trimmings. To attain the uncorseted figure, the right corseting is absolutely essential, the experts say.

FURS and MYSTERY

By

A. Carstensen

Appleton's Exclusive Furrer 582 Morrison-st Phone 278

Integrity Plus Knowledge

If every person who contemplates the purchase of furs would choose the store they patronize as carefully as they choose the furs they buy there would be little question about their getting "value received" for the money they expend.

Far too little attention is ordinarily given to this tremendously important point. Unfortunately, integrity is not to be found on every hand—price bait and style talk often being offered in its stead.

By this it is not meant that style and price are not vital factors in getting value for one's money, but let it be emphatically realized that they are decidedly secondary to quality, which always goes hand in hand with integrity.

The written guarantee of an unreliable store is not worth the paper on which it is penned, but the word of an honest dealer is value-insurance worth while.

Nor does it necessarily follow that the dealer of integrity does not have bargain values. Rather on the contrary, it is in his store that the real bargains will be found; for what he sells will wear, and therein lies the test of whether a garment is good value or bad.

It is also important to remember that, besides integrity, your dealer must have a complete and thorough knowledge of his business if his integrity is to be of any value to you, for he might tell you, with the best of intentions in the world, that the fur he is showing you is this, that or the other thing, when he himself has been fooled in purchasing it.

It takes a mighty keen judge of furs to distinguish between the real and some of the clever imitations of today, so make sure before you start out that your chosen dealer, besides being honest, knows his business thoroughly.

Two men will play for 150 points a block of 150 each. The first match will be on the Arcade tables at 8 o'clock Monday evening Feb. 5. The match will take place on the Little Billiard room and the final at the Little Billiard room.

CUSHION ARTISTS WILL MEET TONIGHT

A billiard battle is scheduled for 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the Carr Hanson Billiard room when Harry Hanson, Appleton's best cushion artist, will meet the veteran performer, Eugene Carr in a 50 point contest.

Hanson's performance will be his first for some time. He has been from Minneapolis where he is expected to win an expert cue.

Interlake Teams Cop Games From Kaukauna And Clintonville Fives

Men Whip Visitors 19 To 14—Girls Defeat Thilmann Quintet By 8 To 4 Score—Grover And Miss Diestler Are Stars

Playing before several hundred Appleton and Kaukauna fans the Interlake mens and girls basketball teams both scored victories Wednesday night in the Interlake gymnasium. The Interlake men's team defeated the Thilmann Pulp and Paper Co. girls by a score of 8 to 4 while in the main event the Interlake men drubbed the Clintonville team by a score of 19 to 14.

Both contests were hard fought affairs but the Appleton teams managed to hold the lead.

The Clintonville visitors displayed an excellent brand of basketball but were lax in their defensive tactics. The Interlake quint, using a five man defense had no trouble in breaking up the plays of the visitors.

Grover was the outstanding star of the Appleton team while Carter Clintonville's main forward, landed most of the points.

MISS DIESTLER STARS
Vera Diestler, Interlake forward, made all the points for her team. Olin led in the playing for the Kaukauna girls. The affair was rather close. The Appleton girls were in the lead at the end of the first half by a score of 4 to 2. This was doubled in the final period.

The Interlake and Clintonville set a first pace at the start. The score was 13 to 11 at the end of the first half. After solving the defense tactics of the Clintonville players the Interlake permitted the visitors to get on a few more points. There were few substitutions on both sides.

Boer, guard for the Clintonville team was forced out of the game early when he sprained his ankle and he was replaced by Bruley who went in as forward while Fischer switched to guard. Other Clintonville players including Carter were Reed center and Wilson guard.

The Interlake lineup was made up of Grover and Lois forwards, Flanagan, center, Kessler and Gardner, guards, Klundt took Lois place and Kerk in for Gardner. Kerk in the line game but both Lois and Gardner took their positions on the floor in a short time.

CARTER STAR VISITOR
Carter, starting for Clintonville made most of his baskets from the middle of the floor.

Interlake plans to play a return game in a few weeks at Clintonville. The Interlake and the Thilmann Pulp and Paper Co. Kaukauna teams are on the program for future games here.

Lancers for the girls teams were Interlake—Helen, Lutz, center, Vera Diestler and Clara Steffen forwards, Laura Wolf and Emma Springer guards.

Thilmann—Linda Rasmussen, center, Ada Olin and Gertrude Reardon, forwards, Neva Laust and Michael Ludika, guards.

Another week has slipped away and Wisconsin is still without a football coach. Many wild rumors have been heard regarding the naming of a pigskin mentor at Madison but aside from the calling in of Jack Ryan for a conference, Tom Iones and his associates have sat tight on the news leaks. No doubt the Wisconsin athletic authorities have been doing everything possible to iron out the situation but the delay is tiresome to Wisconsin followers throughout the country.

The Marinette Superior breach which was widened considerably this past fall will not be mended to any great extent. Superior wants Marinette ousted from the State Inter-scholastic association for participating in the championship football game with Sheboygan in Green Bay. Probably when the next meeting time rolls around there will be a lot of fight in the air but it won't likely go further than that. In our opinion some of the other schools in the state are a bit jealous on Marinette's success in chasing the pigskin.

A scrap between Jimmy Nuss and Jack Zwick is now possible. Zwick has cut clean from Jack Walsh's stable. Walsh still manages Nuss and it is a good bet that he will move heaven and earth to get the better of Zwick. This would be a cooking good bout and, if staged at one of the Fox River valley cities would attract a record breaking crowd. Neither of these battles have much love for each other and if they get together it would be a slam bang affair with both boys showing a nasty mix.

Peace Conference Tonight

Eyes of baseball fans will be concentrated upon Appleton Wednesday night when a new page in the history of Wisconsin ballroom is expected to be written.

Committees of the old Fox River Valley and Wisconsin state leagues were prepared to meet at 8 o'clock in the Conway hotel to consider patching up the differences that resulted in the formation of the state wheel, possibly scuttling both leagues and forming a new organization which will embrace Appleton, Green Bay, Manitowish, Menasha, Kaukauna, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Marinette, Menominee.

The "envoys" who hold council Wednesday night are Harry Sylvester, Appleton; Robert Lynch, Menasha; W. M. Pierce, Menasha; Frank Steckbauer, Oshkosh; John Coppes, Kaukauna; William Liebel or Thomas Kroos, Sheboygan; Heiman Sanders, Fond du Lac.

Sangor Contender For Featherweight Title

JOE SANGOR

Milwaukee boxing fans are convinced that the next featherweight champion of the world will be Joe Sangor.

Milwaukee fans are strong for Sangor. He enjoys much of the hero worship which was once showered on the Mitchell boys.

Sangor has come east within the past year. While his fame is largely confined to the middle west, he is destined to make the eastern critics sit up and take notice very shortly.

Sangor has a great left hand and is very fast. His style in the ring greatly resembles that of Richie Mitchell.

Madison—Conference athletic coaches should be paid uniform salaries according to Prof. James F. A. Pyre of the university, who says that no coach is extremely better than another.

Prof. Pyre favors a "reasonably high" salary for college coaches. He said that he believes it is undesirable for the general spirit of athletics that colleges enter into competition by paying exorbitant salaries to coaches.

Most of the institutions that have been guilty of paying high salaries to coaches are also somewhat extreme in other ways, he contends.

Leading institutions will not allow to be coached in a general trend of high salaries to coaches. Prof. Pyre asserted as his belief.

GARDEN TO REPLACE NOTORIOUS PRISON

St. Lazare, Jail For Many French Women, Will Be Torn Down Soon

By Associated Press Paris—The Saint Lazare prison for women, which is both famous and notorious in the annals of French history, has been ordered torn down by the municipality of Paris. It was in this prison that during the general war certain well known women spies in the pay of Germany were detained, often previous to execution. Mala-Hara, the red dancer, spent her last days in the building.

Before the war the grey walls of this old convent held in bondage such women as Madame Callaux, who shot and killed M. Calmette, editor of Figaro; Jeanne Weber, the stranger; Therese Humboldt, charged with one of the most heinous crimes known to recent French history, and a long list of other women involved in the criminal annals of nineteenth century France. When the walls of this prison have been replaced by a smiling garden there will have disappeared one of the most remarkable buildings of France, from the point of view of historic association.

Founded in 1110 as a leper house, five generations later it was taken in charge by the monks of the order of Saint Victor who abolished the leper house feature, and used the building as a monastery. During this period of the building's history the great military and literary figures of France frequented the gardens.

Then, for a brief thirty years, it was used as a political prison, and with the coming of the French revolution, in July, 1789, during the famine, the place was broken into by the mob, looted for food and set afire.

SEEKS EQUALITY IN TAXATION OF PEOPLE OF STATE

Gov. Blaine Advocates Plan To Relieve Property Of Biggest Burden

BY JOHN J. BLAINE Governor of Wisconsin

Madison—Taxes should be assessed on the principle that those best able to pay should bear the heaviest burden. When this policy is adopted, people will have a greater equality of opportunity and the great mass will find greater advantages.
